Orca safety fears

By GEOFF VIVIAN
BREMER Canyon orca film maker and tour operator Dave Riggs is concerned other tourist businesses will chase orcas (or killer whales) away as a result of an over exploitation of the area.

He claims that placing more vessels in the vicinity of a pod of orcas could frighten them away permanently.

"This is not like a whale migration whereby a number of tourism operators can go out and intercept that migration and basically watch them swim on by," Mr Riggs said.

"These animals are actively hunting, they are using acoustics to do this. If you place multiple vessels in the vicinity of a pod of killer whales and you lose them, they are gone, they can’t hear."

Mr Riggs said he did not use sonar to locate the orcas but simply took his boat to their known feeding grounds, cut his motors, and waited for them to appear.

Mr Riggs, who made a film about the orcas for Discovery Channel in 2015, said he had found several specific locations above the Bremer Canyon where orcas liked to feed.

"It’s been a disappointment that no protection has been put in place to prevent the commercial exploitation that has seen them emigrate from the area to take a breath with schools of giant squid in their mouths."

Premier Mark McGowan called on the Federal Government to license orca tour operators to enforce a code of practice that did not interfere with their hunting.

"You don’t want lots of boats out there operating sonars and chasing whales and the like," he said. "You want it to be a quality-regulated, environmentally-friendly tourism operation."

"People will pay a premium to go and experience it as a quality experience rather than a cheap and nasty and unpleasant experience."

O’Connor MP Rick Wilson said the orcas’ feeding ground off Bremer Bay was not a marine park or afforded any protection at present.

"The Federal Government has recently funded research to verify its significance and define the potential protections required," he said.

Truck damages car in highway road rage

POLICE are searching for a vehicle driver who rammed a parked car on the weekend, allegedly causing over $5000 worth of damage to the vehicle.

Senior Sergeant Grant Pollard said police received a call at 1:15pm from a driver of a headlight-damaged car who said another driver had hit him.

The vehicle was parked in front of a petrol station on the north side of the road near the intersection of Newdegate Road and Whitfield Road.

Mr Pollard said the driver alleged that another car had hit him from behind, causing the car to hit a parked car.

WHALES AHOO!

The white waters of the Southern Ocean were flowing casually past, the pitch black of the night sky was shattered by the lights of the当晚’s full moon, and in the distance, the silhouettes of whales were visible as they fluked towards the horizon. The air was thick with the scent of seaweed, and the sound of the waves crashing against the shore was a constant, soothing lullaby.

Call to continue shark deterrent subsidy

Wellstead has sold three Shark Shield Free- ship appeals and says the State Government should continue the subsidy. “I have had a number of requests for the Shark Shield Free- ship, but only three have been approved,” Wellstead said. “It’s a great initiative, but the subsidy should continue.”

To ‘too hard’ to trade

A fed tanker called in regularly to fill up the on-ground water tank, before driving back across the farm on its own in the east direction. It was driving over the section of the farm where he could see it was a good route for the tanker.

The tanker delivered the water to a nearby farm, and the owner said he was happy with the service. “It is not practical to keep operating the business,” he said. “Perhaps more subsidies should be made available.”

Abattoir upgrade adds jobs

WAMMCO's Katanning plant is the biggest employer in the region and employs more than 400 workers, says Agriculture and Food Minister Alannah MacTiernan.

“WAMMCO is committed to increasing processing figures of boning and mutton rooms, and planned installation of a water recycling plant.

“With the increased capacity to increase processing of about 3,200 head per week, these upgrades will ensure valuable jobs in the region are preserved and new positions for WAMMCO's producer members.

“WAMMCO was born out of the Western Australian Lamb Marketing Board (WALMB) formed in 1971 which was a Joint Venture between shareholders to market their wool product to Australian, overseas and local markets.

“WAMMCO's Katanning plant is the biggest employer in the region and employs more than 400 workers,” said WAMMCO's Katanning manager Tony Hailey.

“An upgrade has been planned to increase the production of mutton rooms, boning rooms and a new vacuum packing machine. The scheme was planned for several years and expected to be completed in the next month.

Albany packed for WA’s long weekend

The Great Southern turned it on for WA’s long weekend, with near-perfect weather proving a major drawcard.

Denmark’s Festival of Voice kicked off the weekend with performances on Friday night.

Saturday was the inaugural Welcoming the Whales Festival and the Albany Classic Hillclimb on Mt Clarence.

Surf Life Saving Club members awoke early on Sunday for the Albany Surf Craft Classic race held in flat-sea conditions from Princess Royal Harbour to Ellen Cove.

Runners converged on Elleker for the annual half marathon and 10km road race.

Hundreds then packed into the CBD to watch the Great Southern Weekender Albany Classic.

WA Museum Great Southern then cranked up the celebrations with a range of activities for WA Day on Monday.

Kojonup's Southern Singers were among the acts at Denmark's Festival of Voice.

Albany Surf Life Saving Club's Hee Hoars enjoyed their Sunday row.

Gertrude Wellesse made another appearance in Denmark.

The Brig Amity proved the perfect backdrop for the start of the Albany Surf Craft Challenge.

Scallywag the Pirate entertained the kids at Albany’s historic whaling station.
Kits appreciated
to the Albany Women’s Centre
Kits drivers and supporters.
On behalf of the staff and clients of the Albany Women’s Centre, we would like to sincerely thank all of the lovely people involved in the Albany Women’s Centre Kids
Kits donation drive.
The donations we received were well beyond our expectations and included a wide range of items such as toiletries for women, and clothing and school lunch sup-pplies for children.
These items will help to support women and children in Albany and the Great Southern, who are escaping family and domestic violence.

Credit given to Main Roads

MOST people are quick to down a professional body or department, but for one woman to give credit when credit is due. In March this year, there was media coverage of a major road accident resulting in seven road deaths. The accident occurred on the main South Coast Highway to and from Esperance. This was a major roadside washout resulting in major road damage, road closures and bridges washed away (sadly, even one tragic death as a result of this unfortunate event).

To get from Albany to Esperance, traffic had to detour 22 km around the Phillip’s Bridge (just west of Railton). We would like to say a special thank you to the Main Roads Department for finding a solution in the Phillip’s Bridge timeframe so quickly and so efficiently.
The damage was extensive. With the bridge washed away, the remaining distance decreased to the main South Coast Highway by 20 minutes. This was a major headache for transport and tourism customer as the detour was about 25 minutes.

The washout occurred just five weeks after the flooding occurred, and approached the Phillop’s River with a certain trepidation, expecting a 22km detour or a rough ride across the Phillip’s Bridge.
Traffic was heavy for the Athelstone Bridge as people were not informed of the road closure.

This was a major transport deficit for Esperance. This was a big thank you to the Main Roads Department for ensuring that people got where they were going Albany Wedgetails.

Annual festival another success

This annual Denmark Festival of Voice held on the weekend was another great success.

More than 80 acts performed at 18 venues, bringing together an array of voices from around the globe.

Music was only one aspect of the festival, with storytelling, the spoken word, poetry and experimental performance also taking place.

The highlights of the event were the international acts, including Compagnia Bacco, Italian singers who performed at St Leonard’s Church.

Denmark Festival of Voice is a must for the calendar over the long weekend and organisers expect it to be even better next year.

New health service a step closer

RIE Kaurna and original community members recently toured the newly-built section of the $3.5 million redevelopment of the Katanning Health Service.

The project includes emergency and medical imaging departments and an expanded outpatient facility.

WA Country Health Service regional direc- tor David Naughton said the new provided a great opportunity for locals to see that construction had been gaining momentum and that significant pro- gress had been made on the new build.

He was joined by mem- bers of the District Health Advisory Council (DHAC) the Katanning Shire president and three councillors in the tour.

“the need has been on for some time, external health services have been large- ly completed, and the inter- nal and electrical cabling and other internal room services are being installed,” Mr Naughton said.

“The new build will also facilitate improvements to other services in our region.”

Katherine Directors Ltd Gladstone said it was pleasing to see the progress of the hospital redevelopment and the com- munity was looking forward

Food for thought

I googled the number of police employed across Australia. It is around 45,000, and they are spread all over the country trying to keep law and order. States are always fighting budgets to employ or not employ, staking elections on the issue. Then I googled the armed forces, and there – wait for it – 55,000 personnel with no budget limits, spending billions. My question is, apart from some in the Middle East, what in the hell are they all doing? My opinion is they should be keeping the public safe at sporting grounds, patrolling hospitals at night, walking around city centres – whatever is required to prevent crime or otherwise. My question is what are they doing? But the I am a dumb baked bean seller. My hat goes off to all our police personnel.

Confusion over businessman’s land

A LOCAL businessman is one of several Langton Road property owners who are leery over the wrong places according to a survey showing a lot of statistics showing a lot of traffic came in confusing locations.

The survey showed the east wall of both blocks in 2005. But he said the wrong places.

“The request came from the survey, which had a lot of statistics showing a lot of traffic came in the last hour of trading,”

If the move is successful, there would be no ограничение shopping on Sunday.

The Shire advertised in the last hour of trading.

“The request came in the last hour of trading.”

“We are requesting an extra hour on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and to be able to trade on public holidays,” he said.

“The request has been made for an extra hour on Sunday, and to be able to trade on public holidays,” he said.

Mr Crofts said the original office at 15 Lowood Road will continue to operate with Property Management and Sales, and Shop 2 at the IGA Centre will remain open for sales only.

MT BARKER real estate agent Ray White (Crofts and Associates) has bought HWJ Realty and Rentco in Mount Barker.

Principal Ken Crofts said the original office at 15 Lowood Road will continue to operate with Property Management and Sales, and Shop 2 at the IGA Centre will remain open for sales only.

“We are pleased to announce that Luke Bushman has joined Ray White (Crofts and Associates),” Mr Crofts said.

“Luke is a very well known in the area and will be a great asset to the team. Also joining us is Harry Griffith, who is also well known in the area and will be concentrating on rural sales,” he said.

Value of petitions
IT IS time-honoured tradition for people who are not happy with their local authority to prepare a petition and gather signatures of people who want something to change.

However Plantagenet Shire CEO Bob Stewart said Council does not always consider them.

“Of course, any communication to the Council is taken seriously,” he said.

“However, there is probably a misunderstanding in the community that a list of names and addresses in a piece of paper will guarantee a specific and formal response.”

He said this was not always the case when a petition did not meet a set of minimum criteria.

“If these minimum criteria are not met, the petition must be provided to the Council and each Council meeting has a specific item set aside for receiving petitions,” he said.

“However, these minimum criteria are set by the council and unless they are met, the petition may or may not generate a report to the Council.”

He said the petition must be addressed to the Shire President and must be made by electors of the district.

“Only 1 home left at this incredible price.

People keeping roosters need to be sensitive

If you keep chickens or roosters in Kendenup, Narrikup and Bumbung, Council is warning of the need to control their numbers, particularly in urban areas.

For those owners who haven’t applied for a permit, the council has now moved all roosters from these areas to be sensitive to other disputes among neighbours living in an urban environment within townships.

“All forms of noise nuisances are to be sensitive to other disputes among neighbours living in an urban environment within townships,” Councillor Andrew Fahey said.

“Owners are required to consider the health, welfare, comfort and amenity of their immediate and adjoining neighbours by permanently removing all roosters from their properties.”

Exemptions relating to keeping animals and birds within a residential area may be considered at the discretion of the council.

Facebook page uncovers lost memories
JD Collins recently found this photograph of his mother’s family while cleaning out their home. It was the last photo of his grandmother, back in 1926, taken on a camping trip in 1932. They took the cow along for milking.

She once worked as a cleaning lady on the Lost Mt Barker Facebook page and started in March after returning home from the UK.

Any Mt Barker residents who would like to share their photographic memories can log on to the page.

ALBANY’s CBD came alive on Sunday for The Great Southern Weekender Albany Classic. The round-the-houses motoring event was well-attended by spectators, with large crowds gathering at all the major vantage points as the clouds parted and the sun shone throughout the afternoon. The regularity race was the main attraction for classic motoring enthusiasts of all ages, with the street festival and Saturday’s hill climb also adding to the program. The event wrapped up on Sunday night with the sponsors’ dinner, which included the auctioning of the original painting used for this year’s Classic poster.
Albany Refrigeration and Air Conditioning

Albany Refrigeration has been providing services to the local region for more than 30 years. Specialising in Daikin and Fujitsu air-conditioning systems, it has a complete range of heating, cooling and ventilation solutions for all applications including housing projects, individual homes, renovations and commercial development.

Their technicians are fully qualified and APITCO accredited to ensure the result not only complies with all environmental regulations and guidelines, but also delivers the ultimate in comfort and performance.

Albany Refrigeration staff pride themselves on their high level of service and maintenance. They are experts in providing pipework laid into frameworks during construction for a neater finish.

Always remember to purchase your air conditioner from a dealer who provides the installation and service back-up to ensure its long life and efficient performance. Some retailers cannot provide this assurance.

Albany Refrigeration is a service agent for the air conditioners sold by them; you can have the peace of mind that they guarantee their installations so there are no question marks. Should any problems arise, service to equipment purchased from Albany Refrigeration is given priority.

If you are building, renovating or thinking about reverse-cycle air conditioning for your existing home, please bring in your plans or phone for an obligation-free visit from the friendly professional team.

This site was a hive of activity during the Great Southern Showdown. Albany Clarence on Sunday.

For some drivers and their crew, the new format gave them the opportunity to take their car past other drivers, or to simply park back and enjoy the view over the event.

For other drivers, the cold hard business of the Albany Town Hall car park became a secondary concern as they improvised to solve the mechanical challenges of the day. See pages 43 and 45 for more photos of all the action.

Soccer rolled on in Albany this weekend despite the WA Day long weekend.

The social leagues began with the top two teams on the ladder facing off against each other.

Dunedin had the opportunity to be the second team to secure first place on the ladder after their draw in their match against Calisthenics.

Both teams played competitive games but Dunedin were a team who were able to score, maintaining their place in the competition. Cross Keys United and Rovers Black also played a close game despite the Rovers being hit with injuries.

With a new keeper in the goal they managed to score a Dunedin Cross Keys scoring their winning goal in the second half bringing their total to six.

Rovers had a good night in the Venus competition and were comfortably ahead the Boys5-1.

Police Reserves won again with Raynor by four goals.

In the woman’s league, Phoenix came out on top winning 2 goals from Storms 1.

Police is a continuing challenge.

Police White played well in the cup, it was a good night for Amy Crawford with two goals.

Police White was a convincing win.

Police White won against Rotary.

Round played Rotar- ians for the first match of the week and last time it wasn’t a pretty game when Rotarian win.

Rovers played Carnar- ons for the first match of the week and last time it wasn’t a pretty game when Carnarons win.

Royals were confident they could present a com- petition and did salvaging some pride with only conceding five goals in their 5-0 loss.

Phoenix only managed to field eight players in the second half of the game this week, but it didn’t do their combination and competitiveness.

In week 10 Rotarian 17 minutes into their opening goal and the ball still in the mix before they were able to score. Rovers replicated the following minutes making the game a three competition.

Phoenix then conceded a number of free kicks and Rovers piled on the goals to break the game open.

On Sunday Baywesman played Polonia and both teams featured new goalkeepers with Brandon Kast standing up for Baywesman and Daniel Marques for Polonia.

It was a competitive game from the start, with both teams unable to score in the first half. The pressure build up in the second half and a number of cards were shown across the field in Polonia who finally broke the stalemate with a goal in the 54th minute. They were able to hold on for the remaining five minutes to secure a 1-0 win.

Why recovery will get you better fitness results

By AMBER Cekerovic

Owner BodyCare Health Club

Recovery is one of the most overlooked aspects of achieving your fitness goals. Your body experiences physical stress when you work out. During a good training session, some of your muscle fibres break down so they can repair during recovery and become stronger for the next time you train.

Training diligently helps us to achieve our health and fitness goals, but recovery is equally important and it is why you may actually be going backwards if you don’t do it properly. You may actually be going backwards from being able to train through the plateaus.

Training hard seven days a week is a no-go because you’re not allowing yourself time to recover, which results in you training hard and actually going backwards. So what can you do? Learn to rest and have a day off. It will do you the world of good. Here are the 3 types of rest our bodies need:

Time out — is a sleep. And as we all know, sleep is very important. It’s important to know how much sleep is required but if you’re looking for a rough number, anywhere between 700 and 900 minutes a day is recommended. Sleep is where a lot of our recovery happens, especially between 10pm and 6am.

Active rest — is when you still train but perform at a lower intensity or volume. It’s important to have an active rest week every 6-8 weeks or so. This allows your body to recover from the hard work you’ve done and removes you from the plateaus.

Active rest — a short break during a hard training session. For example, a 15-20 minute break following the plateaus.

A common myth that shorter break between sets will actually build muscle is very wrong. It can actually hold you back.

Kenei sets hot pace to take out Elleker

KEYN¥I/bom long distance runner Jackson Kenei (26) was shades of green in conditions to take the Elleker Half Marathon on Sunday.

A strong field lined up for the half event featuring the 22km half marathon and 10km road race which is in its 22nd year.

Kenei set a hot pace early and ran most of the race on his own and crossed the line in one hour 13 minutes and 36 seconds.

Andrew Hinson claimed the line in third place with a time of 1:52:44.46 and Kathlene Stockwell was the first female across the line in 1:57:52.06.

Kenei is based in Mount Barker and has moved from Kojonup toWA to compete in long distance running.

In the women’s division, Marie Stockwell took advantage of the perfect conditions to win the Elleker Half Marathon on Sunday.
