GREATER Southern Girl Guides are joining the fight against violence towards women with a cheese-flavoured fundraiser.

Cheese for Change will take place on March 24 in Lockyer and encourage people to gather for cheeses, boards and cheese-based foods to talk about the Stop the Violence campaign and raise funds for White Ribbon Australia.

The national fundraising goal for this year’s event is $200,000. Pictured are Albany Girl Guides Brooke Ferguson, Sophie-Robyn Martin, Anna Rowe, Melodie Boyd and Megan Orr who are starting to collect items for their cheeseboards.

WHAT'S ON this weekend

Women in the spotlight

Based on the Great Southern Women’s Football League grand final, with a similar format to the annual Women’s Football World Cup, Alyssa Willms will be the first woman to win the grand final. She will be among the 100 top players and will lead her team to victory. Alyssa has been named the best player of the year for her outstanding performance. The grand final will be held at the Great Southern Regional Football Stadium, with a capacity of 10,000. The event will be broadcast live on the ABC.

The Big List

The list of events is available through the Albany City Council’s website, where you can find the details of the activities happening in the city. The list includes events like the Albany City Festival, the Albany City Food and Wine Festival, and many more. The events are scheduled to take place from 21 March to 3 April.

Beard gathers speed

ASHLEIGH FIELDING

THERE is still time for people to nominate and take part in this weekend’s Leukaemia Charity Fun Golf Day at King River.

The three-person ambrose event will be held at Brev Yay, 9th Avenue on Sunday and golfers will tee off at 10am.

Klaus Bardfield from the Leukaemia Foundation Albany Committee Gayle Harmon said people can call up and put their names forward until the end of today. March 7.

“This is just to call Rod Ross at 02 482 441 227,” she said.

“I’ve 190 points and that includes a sausage sizzle and batchet tea.

“We keep everyone very well fed all day and there’s lots of fun and good times on every hole.”

Proceeds from the event will go to the Leukaemia Foundation, a charity that supports people with blood cancer, their families and research needs.

“The Foundation has a accommodation for patients and their families in Brisbane,” Ms Harmon said.

“So this event’s donations will go towards helping that accommodation.

“We really just want to raise awareness and as much money as we can to help people with blood cancer needs.”

Previous events have seen the Albany support group raise more than $2,500.

Just over $6000 was raised last year alone and Mr Harmon hopes that target can be matched on the weekend.

According to the Leukaemia Foundation, blood cancer is one of the most common causes of cancer death in Australia and 75 Australians are diagnosed with the disease everyday.

More information about the Albany group can be obtained by calling Mr Harmon on 0408 094 817.

Racewars into third year

Racers revved their engines and car fans devoured neat paintwork during the long weekend for the third annual Racewars event.

Track conditions were ideal for Saturday’s event with a gentle tail wind and dry track despite some earlier drizzle.

After the lights turned green, the sounds of engines being pushed to their maximum could be heard from the neighbouring car park.

Willal Racing’s 2011 Nissan GTR broke a national record over the weekend topping 351.43km/h.

With the latest designs in carpet, timber, bamboo, laminate, luxury vinyl and rugs, we have the perfect flooring solution for every home and budget.

Concert heats up

AUDIENCES lounged on the grass, enjoyed the last rays of sunshine, sipped on some chilled white wine and enjoyed the tunes at the Days of Summer concert at Denmark’s Castelli Winery.

Kojonup’s The Sophie Jane Band got the crowd warmed up with country tunes and original tracks. Next up was Denmark local performers Myles Mitchell and the Great Southern Roots singing about salty sea dogs. As the sun went down, on came the acts that everyone was waiting for: Thirsty Merc got everyone dancing to songs about summer, Heidi rocked the house down and veteran performer Daryl Braithwaite had people wishing for a resurgence of ‘Sherbet’.

Green waste – from garden to compost

ALBANY WASTE AND RECYCLING EDUCATION

Each year more than 1.5 million kg of garden waste is collected in Albany’s four weekly kerbside collection and turned into compost that contains valuable nutrients from landfills.

Albany’s green waste bins are 240L, with a lime green lid. Use your green waste bin for garden waste including green pruning, grass clippings and small branches.

It is important to make sure that all green waste is not left in the frame of the insert. Green waste items need to be put down to the ground level and NOT tidied up in the bag. Placing incorrect items in the bin is called contamination.

Contamination problems during the processing of green waste into high-quality compost is a common problem. In some cases, just a few contaminated items in a green waste bin can ruin an entire batch of green waste. Please refer to the sticker on the underside of your green waste bin for instructions on how to use your green waste bin correctly. Replace here stickers are available from the Cleanaway office at 12 Allerton Street.

Cleanaway collects approximately 80% of green waste from residential homes every day in Albany. At the processing facility, the green waste is pushed into a machine to be turned into compost.

This machine is in place so that all bulky waste can be turned into compost. The weight limit for all kerbside wheelie bins, including green waste, is 70kg and the collection trucks have the ability to handle this weight limit. The weight limit for green waste is 70kg.

Juxtaposing moods

ALBANY artists Turi Peace and Kristen Spyker's work will be included in a new exhibition at Blush Retail Gallery this month.

Their work will be part of a new show, titled ‘Upcycling festival’, which opens on March 16.

The show is the result of a collaboration between Albany Contemporary Dance and Albany Entertainment Centre.

The pair have been working on the exhibit for several months and are excited to share their work with the public.

Peace and Spyker have been friends for many years and have worked together on various projects before.

They decided to create a new exhibition, titled ‘Upcycling festival’, to showcase their latest work.

The exhibition will feature a range of sculptures, paintings, and digital art, all of which are created through the process of upcycling.

Upcycling is the process of taking something old or damaged and transforming it into something new.

Peace and Spyker have used this technique to create their latest work, which includes sculptures of echidnas and art installations.

The exhibition will open on March 16 and run until April 15.

Visitors are encouraged to come and see the work and to think about the importance of sustainability.

For more information, please contact the Albany Contemporary Dance Foundation on 08 9842 2400 or visit their website at albanycyd.com.au.

CLASSIC MUSCLE CAR

Driving a classic muscle car around Albany certainly attracts attention and conversations. The Holden Monaro is no exception.

The Monaro was first introduced to the Australian market in 2004. It was a car that was designed to be different, offering a unique combination of style and performance.

The Monaro continued until 2005 but despite this, Holden said the car still had a modern design that drive enthusiasts appreciated.

The Monaro was designed with the intention of being a beautiful and stylish car, with a focus on performance. It was designed to appeal to the younger generation who were looking for a car that was both stylish and fun to drive.

The Monaro was a true icon of Australian motoring and remains a classic car to this day. It is a car that is respected and admired for its beauty and performance, and it continues to be a popular choice for car enthusiasts around the world.

Fishing in deep water

There are many styles of fishing and one that has been growing in popularity is deep-dropping.

As the name suggests, this style of fishing involves casting your line in very deep water and waiting for it to take the bait. The key to successful deep-dropping is patience, as it can take a while for the fish to take the bait.

Some of the best catches come from deep-dropping, and it is a style of fishing that can be enjoyed by anyone, regardless of their experience. It is a sport that is enjoyed by people of all ages and abilities, making it a popular choice for families and groups of friends.

Fishing tips

- Use appropriate gear: Deep-dropping requires specialized equipment, including deep-sea fishing rods, line, and weights.
- Be patient: Success in deep-dropping often comes after waiting for a long time. Patience is key to catching fish.
- Choose the right location: Fishing in deep water requires knowledge of the area and the fish species present.

The straight dope on medical marijuana

EVERY December I send the people at the Weekender a list of topics I’ve agreed to write about. Then I pretty much forget about it until it’s due. By this time, of course, several months have passed, and I’ve become older, and more bitter, and better at wine. This is the result.

It’s become legal in more and more places around the world, and it’s starting to happen here and it’s something easy to get your hands on – and your friends up-aboard. But it’s profoundly controversial, and it’s difficult to get to the truth. There’s a whole bunch of factors: it’s legal to prescribe medical marijuana, but only just. There’s a lot of public misunderstanding.

The situation at the moment is that medical marijuana is legal, but not widely available. It’s legal for doctors to prescribe medical marijuana, but there’s a lot of red tape, and a lot of broadcasting, and a lot of work and hardly any doctors in Australia prescribe medical marijuana.

The straight dope

To get a fairly short list of conditions that it’s legal to prescribe medical marijuana for, the website www.drsonja.com.au says the three most frequent reasons patients go to a doctor are to obtain a prescription for review of their conditions, and for upper respiratory tract infections, and for upper respiratory tract infections.

A REPORT on general practice in Australia shows that the three most frequent reasons patients go to a doctor are to obtain a prescription for review of their conditions, and for upper respiratory tract infections, and for upper respiratory tract infections.

The report shows that GPs most frequently prescribed pentamidine, oral contraceptives, opioids and drugs for pain, of course, along with antibiotics. In fact, the report shows that 42 per cent of patients had at least one oral-medicine test result recorded.

NPS MedicalWise CEO Anne-Marie O’Hare said the report, which is based on de-identified data from 2.1 million patients from the General Practice Insights Report 2015, shows that the three most frequent reasons patients go to a doctor are to obtain a prescription for review of their conditions, and for upper respiratory tract infections, and for upper respiratory tract infections.

The report shows that GPs most frequently prescribed CO2, statin therapy, and for upper respiratory tract infections.

Sharing and learning to share

LEARNING TO SHARE can be challenging for young children, but sharing is what they need to learn for happy childhood. You can help your child learn to share by giving them opportunities to learn about sharing and the skills needed to share. Once your child starts having playmates and going to child care, preschool or kindergarten, they will need to do the same.

Sharing teaches children about cooperation and fairness. They learn that no one can do everything by themselves. Once your child starts having playmates and going to child care, preschool or kindergarten, they will need to do the same.

Surf’s up for Strong finish

Albany Spirit competitors hitting the water for the first leg of the tradition.

Dressmaker Toby Le Fort took out the 2019 Albany Triathlon Club Albany Sprint Open division on Sunday afternoon behind a bumper field of local and visiting competitors.

Le Fort started the weekend in Albany, where he squeezed in some training and a surf session. He was also able to spend some time with his dog, who is a great companion on long drives and training sessions.

Le Fort made his way to the nearby town of Donnybrook for the event, where he spent some time with friends and family. He was able to enjoy the local hospitality and get some much-needed rest before the competition.

Le Fort started the race strong, taking advantage of the early wave conditions. He was able to hold his own against some tough competition and eventually took the lead. He went on to win the race, earning a well-deserved victory.

After the race, Le Fort took some time to reflect on his performance and the conditions of the day. He was happy with his performance and felt that he was able to push himself to the limit.

Le Fort is looking forward to the next leg of the competition, which will take place in Margaret River. He is excited to see how he will perform in different conditions and is ready to take on the challenge.

“Overall, I was happy with my performance and the conditions of the day. I am looking forward to the next leg of the competition and am ready to take on the challenge,” Le Fort said.

Next up, Le Fort will be making his way to Margaret River, where he will take on the next leg of the competition. He is looking forward to the challenge and is excited to see how he will perform in different conditions.

Le Fort’s next race will take place on March 14-15 at the Margaret River Surf Life Saving Club. He will be taking on the 10km Open Water race and the 5km Paddle Surf race. He is looking forward to the challenge and is excited to see how he will perform in different conditions.

The standings sound of V8 engines was heard Mount Barker on Saturday when the speedway club hosted the 12th annual Super Sedan Classic. The 25-lap feature race without a caution and a minimum of two drivers claim the chequered flag.

Higgs started from the pole position alongside Kevin Bell, who won the Coffin Super Sedan Stunner Series round last weekend, with the pair racing side-by-side into turn one and then side-by-side towards the back straight.

Chris Pavlovich, who started fourth, got the inside of both the men in turn one and settled back in third until late lap 3 when he fell back to fifth with Adele Harvey also gaining past. As the front pair cleared Harvey on the outside of Pavlovich.

With only 15 laps to go the leading Harvey passed Pavlovich for the first time and then set a new lap record of 26.694

Once again Bell and Higgs were battling for the lead, with Higgs pulling clear of Bell and Harvey in the dying stages of the race to win.

Higgs has been on the up for the past two rounds and his charge continues.

Higgs had claimed third at the Collie Sedan Classic and then went on to claim the chequered flag. He now has 75 points, moving him up the standings.

The result only adds to the momentum they have been building up with the pair feeling confident they are ready for the 2019 Air-Ride Series.

The result also means the club has stepped closer to claiming the chequered flag for the second year in a row.

The pair are also hopeful of making it three in a row with the upcoming round at Collie this weekend.

Denise Amato said she still believes she can beat her primary progressive multiple sclerosis diagnosis.

Denise defies diagnosis

Grace Jones

BEING defeated by her diagnosis was something Denise Amato couldn’t abide by four years ago when she was diagnosed with primary progressive multiple sclerosis.

Amato decided to participate in the MSWA Albany Swim and organise a team of 10 to help raise awareness for her condition and other people suffering with a range of neurological conditions across the Great Southern.

The MSWA Albany Swim has run for seven years and teams of 10 have shown they are able to earn a small eight-hour period.

“I had so many friends and family offer to join in,” she said.

“We swam over the $4000 mark now and we didn’t really go into it wanting to fundraaze.”

“Some people were saying they weren’t very good at fundraising but having said that, the three leading fundraisers at the moment are all here,” Amato said.

Amato said she took her a few years to be able to tell anyone outside of her close friends and family that she was diagnosed with MS.

“I was very private with my diagnosis and this year I decided to go public with it,” she said.

“I didn’t want to be ‘oh there’s Denise Amato, the one with MS’,” she said.

Amato said despite her condition affecting her mobility and energy levels, she decided she wanted to give back to MSWA for the help they had given her.

“Mainly I wanted to get out of my comfort zone and do something,” she said.

“I need a reason to get out of bed most mornings so I thought it was a reason to do something good.”

Amato said she spent a few months thinking and dreaming about what she could do and had the idea of having five days a week rain, hail or shine.

“I really thought I could swim,” she joked.

But she soon realized that she really can’t swim well at all and her team being called the Bathrooms and Decor Bobbers.

“It’s a reflection of my ability as an ocean bobber rather than a swimmer,” Amato said.

Amato said the support she had received from MSWA was encouraging and for anyone suffering from a similar condition to get in touch with them.

“With their support I feel like you can recover your life and do things everyday,” she said.

“Some days I feel pretty useless and it would be easier to drift into a corner but I don’t want to do that.”

The MSWA Albany Swim will run on March 23 at the Albany Leisure and Aquatic Centre from 8am to 5pm.

Registrations are available at www.MSWAAlbany.org.au.
