ASHLEIGH FIELDING

MOUNT Lockyer Primary School will soon get a major facelift with Premier Mark McGowan announcing this week it would receive a whopping $15.2 million for a major redevelopment due to be complete by 2022.

Mr McGowan flew down to the school on Tuesday to deliver the news in-person to staff and students. The announcement came just six weeks after Mr McGowan visited Albany as part of his "school maintenance blitz". It was during this visit Mr McGowan learned $3 million for Mount Lockyer simply "wasn’t enough".

"Your school has been here for 65 years," he said to staff and students. "That’s about the same age as Mr Peter Watson. "And like Mr Watson’s foot [in a moon boot], the school has had a few things go wrong with it over time." You’re a very fast-growing school with lots of boys and girls and this area is growing with lots of young families. "So, we are going to build you a new school and we are going to spend $15.2 million building it."

Mr McGowan acknowledged that refurbishing the school “wasn’t the right option” and said it was "very exciting" to be able to replace the ageing school with a “state-of-the-art facility”. Planning will commence in the coming months with the goal to open the new school for the start of the 2022 school year.

"You will have one of the newest and best primary schools in Western Australia," Mr McGowan said. Principal Maxine Augustson was relieved with the outcome, as she had been lobbying the project with the Mount Lockyer P&C and Mr Watson for several years. She said both staff and students were "tremendously excited".

"The school is loved, very much loved, but the conditions are very run down," Ms Augustson said. "The learning areas that children have to work in are quite substandard; there isn’t space to be able to learn in a manner that we are expecting children to learn and for teachers to deliver a program that we expect a quality education program." Currently, Mount Lockyer Primary houses 655 students and Mr Augustson said next year, she is expecting 675 students.

The new upgrades should cater for up to 700 students.

On the same day Mr McGowan made the Mount Lockyer Primary announcement, he turned the sod at Albany Secondary Education Support Centre and North Albany Senior High School to mark the start of their $9.8 million construction upgrades. This includes refurbishing and reconfiguring eight classrooms, a new double-storey classroom block and two new state-of-the-art science laboratories.

The Department of Transport (DoT) is reviewing the boating safety equipment requirements for recreational vessels. DoT is hosting an event where people can get more information, view the proposed regulations and have their say on the changes. The event is open to anybody who would like to share their views on the new requirements for recreational vessel safety equipment. The review is being undertaken to ensure that the appropriate safety equipment is on board recreational vessels, to reduce the risk of injury or fatality when a vessel sinks. The event will be held on Thursday 31 October, from 10am to 1pm at the DoT Narrows Apprenticeship Centre, 129 Queen Street, Albany. For more information or to register, please contact Jennifer our caring Community Manager on 9841 1477 or email Jennifer@transport.wa.gov.au.

The review is expected to be completed by the end of 2020. William Whitelaw (DoT’s Manager of Marine Safety) said DoT was open to any feedback from people who were interested in the safety of recreational vessels. The online survey on the DoT website was open for anyone to take part. The survey can be found by going to www.transport.wa.gov.au/safetyequipmentreview. Have your say, go to DoT’s website at www.transport.wa.gov.au/safetyequipmentreview to register or by phone on (08) 9435 7901.

Q & A with Mayor

DENNIS Wellington will become the City of Albany’s longest serving Mayor after receiving more than 70 per cent of the vote in the 2019 Local Government Elections on Saturday. Here he goes head-to-head with Weekend Editor Jan Beek on his vision for the city’s future.

Q: Firstly, congratulations Dennis on winning your third term as the City of Albany’s longest serving Mayor. Does the pipeline really give you confidence that the Albany electorate supports you and Council?

A: It certainly gives me some confidence that the community is happy with what we’re doing and the direction we’re taking. Our most recent Community Satisfaction Survey showed we’re performing above expectations and the Local Government Performance Survey shows we’re performing above the national average.

Q: Our customers online are concerned consumers who are buying locally makes a world of difference. Their purchasing power and spending locally injects money into the local economy. So why?

A: “We boost the local economy when we buy local, especially as we’re sourcing and producing in biodiverse regions and the regions with products that also represent the people and the culture that have walked the land and the culture that we are here to support and to preserve. It makes a world of difference. We’re supporting the people who we know and the people who we interact with. We’re supporting the people that we know and that also walk the land.

Q: In the community you’d often hear the expression that your presence and your work as Mayor is that you’re ‘a very united team’. What do you attribute this to?

A: “Our customers online are concerned consumers who are buying locally makes a world of difference. Their purchasing power and spending locally injects money into the local economy. So why?

A: “We boost the local economy when we buy local, especially as we’re sourcing and producing in biodiverse regions and the regions with products that also represent the people and the culture that have walked the land and the culture that we are here to support and to preserve. It makes a world of difference. We’re supporting the people who we know and the people who we interact with. We’re supporting the people that we know and that also walk the land.

Q: So it’s back to work. What are the next priorities for Albany over the next four years such as the bicentenary celebrations in 2026?

A: “Our customers online are concerned consumers who are buying locally makes a world of difference. Their purchasing power and spending locally injects money into the local economy. So why?

It makes a world of difference. We’re supporting the people who we know and the people who we interact with. We’re supporting the people that we know and that also walk the land.

Q: The City Council was not yet agitating concerning fiscal or lacking luckily that has changed as money will be allocated to a cultural centre.

A: “Our customers online are concerned consumers who are buying locally makes a world of difference. Their purchasing power and spending locally injects money into the local economy. So why?

It makes a world of difference. We’re supporting the people who we know and the people who we interact with. We’re supporting the people that we know and that also walk the land.

Q: Do you think that stability overly accounts for the perception of you? We do need to protect nature to open the roads again.

Plantagenet's winners

Chris Pavlovich - President
22.58 per cent of votes
Mr Pavlovich has served the Shire as a councillor for the past eight years and was re-elected President for another two years. He said times were changing for the region.

"I hope to embrace technology and make sure our council keeps up with the expectations of the community," he said.
"He's a muller-like figure we can do better with less."

Jon Oldfield - Deputy Shire President
Ms Oldfield, who is up for election in 2021, was was re-elected as Deputy Shire President on Tuesday night and said he would like to see more stable financial management practices in the next two years.

"If I have to work to make sure we can attract more people to live in Mount Barker," he said.

Marie O'Dea - Deputy Shire President
21.13 per cent of votes
Ms O'Dea was elected to Council in 2014 and said for her new term as councillor she hopes to introduce an arts, culture and heritage policy.

"We need policy in place if we want to move on grant applications for arts groups and heritage projects," she said.

Marie O'Dea

Karen Woltering - Deputy Shire President
19.33 per cent of votes
Ms Woltering is the new face for the council this election and says addressing the needs for both youth and seniors were very important.

"We need to make sure our seniors have all of the services they require and make sure our youth have something to do," she said.
"I also want to address making more employment opportunities to keep people in the region."

Ken Clements - Deputy Shire President
20.25 per cent of votes
Mr Clements said his biggest goal after being re-elected was to consolidate the Shire’s income and make sure their rates were in good standing again.

"The last couple of years were have been trying to consolidate instead of getting rid of our debts," he said.

"Hopefully we can spend some money on renovating the pool and finally sort out what is happening with rubbish across the Great Southern.

"I have to work to make sure we can attract more people to live in Mount Barker," he said.

Mr O'Dea also participates in arts administration for Arthouse WA, and the Plantagenet Arts Council, and coordinates the Wine Show of WA.

Plantagenet has said goodbye to one council-

Councillors Ken Clements, Marie O'Dea & Chris Pavlovich were able to hold their positions for another four years while Kevin Woltering was welcomed in lieu of Bevan Lang.

The Woolner spoke with each newly elected official to get their thoughts on what they hope to bring to their council for the next term.

"We need to make sure our seniors have all of the services they require and make sure our youth have something to do," she said.
"I also want to address making more employment opportunities to keep people in the region."

"Hopefully we can spend some money on renovating the pool and finally sort out what is happening with rubbish across the Great Southern."

ALBANY Club members and visitors decided it was better late than never over the weekend to celebrate the beer-soaked celebration of Oktoberfest.

Traditionally Oktoberfest is held annually in Germany and runs for five to eight days from mid-September to the first Sunday in October.

In 2013 the festival in Munich had more than 7.7 million litres of beer consumed.

Festivalgoers dress in traditional Germanic clothing, drink from beer steins and listen to brass music.

The Albany Club’s iteration of the centuries old event was not as bawdy or rambunctious on Saturday however people still got into the spirit of the celebrations.

Club members put on a spread of sausages and pretzels for the visitors all to be washed down with traditional German beer.
Celebrate Oktoberfest at the Outlook!

Over 50s resort lifestyle living at its best.

If you’re over 50 and love a cold beer, then Oktoberfest at the Outlook should be on your social calendar. There will be German beers, Bratwurst sausages, music, entertainment and plenty of fun from 1-5pm on Sunday 27th October 2019.

Join us 1-5pm Sunday 27th October 2019. Spaces are limited. RSVP with Phillip today!

$10 per person
Includes drink + German sausage in a bun with sauerkraut and gravy.

Running start

RUNNERS and walkers took advantage of the warm weather on Sunday to compete in the inaugural Albany Athletics Club Park to Point Run. Competitors rubbed the sleep out of their eyes early in the morning and eagerly took to the starting line to compete in the 10km, 5km or 2km categories. Runners took off from Anzac Peace Park for the 10km event. See page 58 for the full story.

Pets come first

WE ALL know that some Australian think of their pets as family members. More than any other demographic group, they are most likely to consider their pets as family members. A new survey by Pawshake shows that there are many more pet owners who consider their pets as family members.

The survey is based on responses from more than 4,000 pet owners in Australia. It finds that almost all pet owners (96%) consider their pets as part of the family, and that they are more important than their children or grandchildren.

Pet owners were asked a range of questions about their pets, including:

- 87% of pet owners consider their pets as a substitute for having kids.
- 85% of pet owners consider their pets to be a key reason for them to stay at home.

The redevelopment of the Katanning playground is nearly finished.

Grace Jones

The highly anticipated redevelopment of Katanning’s All Ages Playground, State Park and Lions Path is nearing completion. Katanning residents and visitors to the region will soon be able to pack a picnic, gather some friends and family and have fun on the newly-refurbished double bouncy slide at the playground.

Recently re-elected Councillor Liz Guidera said the finishing touches were being made to the precinct for the $5 million upgrade funded by the State Government.

The Shire of Katanning held its council elections on Saturday. The Shire commenced work on the redevelopment of the precinct almost a year ago as part of the Katanning Heritage Group Project to significantly change the landscape of the playground and update the Welcome precinct at the town’s main entrance to be instantly recognisable.

Once the redevelopment is completed the Shire will host a Community Fun Day at the playground to celebrate the construction fences coming down.

The Weekender will update its readers on when the official opening of the park will take place.

The Shire of Katanning held its council elections on Saturday.

Property presents pleasant possibilities

THE amount of possibilities this property presents is limited only by your imagination. It has spectacular views, extensive sheds and an abundance of natural bush. This home was built by a builder so there are plenty of clever building features including allowing the sun to warm the home naturally from the north and huge windows that allow the view to be unobstructed.

This view, by the way, encompasses the natural bush and Princess Royal Harbour over to the port and the town and islands in King George Sound. It is not only impressive, but it is distracting as you may well find that you spend vast quantities of your time gazing into the distance, thinking about how lucky you are to live here.

The home is four bed, two bath including one with spa, and two fireplaces with lots of room including an office area. There are patio areas enclosed and open and a garage that connects directly to the house.

It is an easy house to live in with plenty of space, a good design that means the parents aren’t wall-sharing with the kids and enough space in-between that you won’t be tripping over your belongings.

To begin with outside, it is a meandering drive to the home and the sheds. Sheds are numerous including open machinery sheds and one massive, clean, powered, 12m x 27m multipurpose shed with three-phase power.

You could easily run a warehouse, admin office and customer service desk out of this beauty – no shed needs to be bigger. There are three more sheds so storage will not be a problem.

An orchard, with approximately 20 established trees will provide plenty of seasonal goodness.

The gardens are reticulated and there is enough rainwater storage to supply the home with scheme for the gardens if you choose.

Warm, unique and between the Torndirrup National Park and Grove Links Golf Course, so call Max to view this undervalued property and set yourself up for life.

Exploiting culture through shoes

ALBANY artist Ashley Wallrodt is hosting his eighth consecutive solo exhibition this month to raise money for international charity Save the Children.

Walk a Mile in Their Shoes features numerous pairs of shoes Wallrodt has crafted during his regular pottery sessions at Yankee Art Centre. Each pair represents a different charity that Wallrodt has supported and brings home honours for his solo efforts.

Wallrodt starts with a blank canvas and allows his creative side to lead the way, forming each shoe from clay and firing it in his kiln. Once the clay has cooled, Wallrodt will use different glazes and techniques to give each pair its distinctive look.

Wallrodt is no stranger to the creative process. He has been working as a potter for several years and has exhibited his work at various galleries and events around the region.

His work has been widely exhibited and recognized for its unique style and creativity. Wallrodt is dedicated to using his art to raise awareness and funds for important causes.

Prawn cocktail

Recipe supplied by:

Ingredients (Serves 6)

- 400g Exmouth king or tiger prawns, cooked and peeled
- 1/2 kohlrabi
- Chives
- 10ml mayonnaise
- 20ml tomato sauce
- 10ml sriracha sauce
- 10ml Worcestershire sauce
- 10ml soy
- 10ml tamari
- 10ml mayonnaise
- 10ml lemon juice
- 10ml vinegar
- Tartare sauce
- 10ml olive oil

Method

1. Pre-heat the oven to 160 degrees, break the bread up and mix with oil and garlic with a few sea salt flakes and toss in the oven until golden then set aside.

2. For the sauce mix the mayonnaise, Worcestershire, tamari, soy sauce and lemon juice in a bowl until combined. Set aside with the sauce to present with the prawns. People usually love it served with some chips (fries) and some of our white wine.

3. To assemble, layer the lettuce and place in bowl, arrange prawns, drizzle with sauce then a little buttermilk, finish with chives, croutons and cracked black pepper.

Notes:

Now this recipe calls for cooked/demarinated prawns. In my opinion, you are best to buy them from the fishmonger already cooked and frozen. Pretty much 99 per cent of WA prawns are frozen. The fishers cook them at sea in seawater and the snap freeze them. Your prawns will be better quality if you defrost it yourself, leaving them in the fridge overnight to defrost. After that they can stay in the fridge for a few days. It is an easy recipe and people enjoy it. However, prawns don’t keep seafroze well enough for long periods of time.

Enjoy this twist of an old classic.

Fishing

I WROTE about getting your fishing tackle in top order for the upcoming season weeks ago, but I want to stress this again during the fall. You will not want to have any doubts about anything, any big trips, or any crane trips before you head out on the water.

Now if you are an avid reader of this column, you might think you have read this before and I want to assure you that it is not every year that you can do so.

I know the importance of getting this right and I have been there. I have been putting the wrong bait on the reel and finding the wrong size of a ring on the wire, etc. I have learned it the hard way.

Now when safety is number one, check all your safety gear first thing every day, especially if you have been out for a while. If it is not there, you will not want to have to pay for it extra.

I have mentioned it before, but I always carry a modern type jump start kit with me. I use it to keep my batteries in shape and to keep them charged. I have been in contact with the local mechanics in town and get them to have a look at it.

I know that you will want to have a look at your boat and find the right size of a ring on the wire, etc. This is where you think they are, but they cost then grab one. Next, attach the ear muff s to the motor and ask for a radio check on your radio from home. Make sure that you have a think about anything, and if it is longer than six months consider adding a new one. If you can lay your hands on one, feel your battery get very hot, then you should probably change it.

If you have an external alarm, you should check the batteries, the terminals are not connected, and the alarm will not work. If you can lay your hands on it, feel your battery get very hot, then you should probably change it.

I have mentioned it before, but never use a canoe to clean the mouth of a ring on the wire, etc. This is where you think they are, but they cost then grab one. Now that you have been out for a while, your boat is not there, and you should be out there.

Now onto the batteries, make sure the terminals are not corroded and they are firmly attached. If you can lay your hands on one, feel your battery get very hot, then you should probably change it.

Knights take lead

GRACE JONES

KNIGHTS had a narrow victory against Ambas-doms on Tuesday night for round two of the Albany Cricket Association’s Senior A-grade of the A-grade premierships. Knights started the game off strong with Kezna Woodrow making a massive 104 in the first few overs and putting the team on the board. Knights spent the opening game off strong but spent the whole match on the back foot. Knights’ Luke McGuire dominated the count scoring 15 points for the game with Woodrow shifting 11 points for the team in support.

By the final buzzer Knights had their second win of the season to 40. The newly formed Railways Tigers continued their strong pressure on the court this week and dominated the Raiders U18 Boys with a 5-point win, 70 to 37.

Raiders pressure on the court had them out of sight, setting the tone for the rest of the match.

Parking off the night for the Men’s A was the close between Barking Owls and new team Broom-hall. Broomhall strutted his stuff in 45 overs.

Blythe’s start to the season has been rocky with them defeated all their dates last week by nine runs, and a similar defeat this round, 51 to 43. Tigers had a rest week day round to reassess their strategy after Bening a 19-point lead by half time, setting the tone for the rest of the match.

In the Women’s A grade, the reigning Val-ley lions’ battle against the Crystal Blues, 53 to 36.

Parkers were also suc-
cy, the Raiders U18 Girls, 48 to 32.

Kangaroo Storm put their fees up this round crashing the Valkyrias by 19 points.

Round three for the Men’s A will have the Raidways Tigers playing Knights on Court 5 at 6pm, Raiders U18 Boys will play Blaz-ers on Court 6 at 7pm, Ambassadors will play Tigers in Court 7, while Ambassadors and Barking Owls will have the byes.

The Women’s A grade will continue on Tuesday night with the Raiders U18 Girls playing Kangaroo Storm on Court 5 at 6pm, Valkyrias will play Parkers, on Court 5 at 7pm, Ambassadors will be on Court 7 at 6pm before Ambassadors will have the byes.
