Water deficiencies declared in the shire of Kennett River and Aireys Inlet from today until the end of May due to a severe drought. The order is in place to reduce water usage for drinking and essential purposes.

The department of Water Minister Dave Kelly and Environment Minister Lily Dalton, which normally targets water usage in the shire of Kennett River and Aireys Inlet. Mr. Kelly said this at an event to record its third consecutive dry season, following on from the lowest recorded in 2018. "The seriousness of the situation in Kennett River and Aireys Inlet is significant, and the water management plan for these areas is crucial.

The Department of Water and Environmental Regulation, with support from the Department of Primary Industries and Regional Development Research and Regional Development Research, is working closely with local councils to ensure water sustainability and maintain existing supply chains.

While we are committed to providing water to these shires, it is also crucial that our customers are aware of the situation and take steps to conserve water. This includes minimizing water usage for non-essential purposes such as lawns and gardens, and ensuring that water is used efficiently in showers and baths.

The official declaration of the water deficiency will be made by the Water Minister and the Environment Minister, guided by the recommendations of the Department of Water and Environmental Regulation. This declaration is expected to reduce water usage by 50% in these areas.

What’s on this weekend

SHEEP produces internal burning

SHEEP produces internal burning when it is stressed and has a lack of resources, such as water and food. This can result in water being used where it is not needed, leading to a decline in water availability.

The Water Minister said the order is a precautionary measure to ensure that water is used efficiently and that the shires are prepared for any future water shortages.

The first three correct responses will win double passes to Wignalls valued at $150. The concert is headlined by the Blues Brothers and the Vibrolators with Miss Peta Lee.

BEST BEACHES

Nothing says summer in Australia like a relaxing day on the south coast. With so many beautiful beaches along our amazing south coast, it’s no wonder one of the highlights many families would be familiar with is a trip to the beach to go to when the temperature starts to soar.

The best thing about our location, unlike Perth, is that if the wind does come in, it is always offshore somewhere.

We at the Weekender have put our heads together to come up with what we think are some of the best beaches to visit, no matter the occasion.

GREENS POOL, DENMARK
One of the most well-known beaches in WA, Greens Pool is one of Denmark’s iconic, popular places to visit and is not hard to see why people love it.

It has sheltered areas for kids to swim in plenty of rocks and structure for snorkellers and is protected from large swell by a large granite boulder. No crystal turquoise waters make it not only a great place but a perfect place to update your insta at.

William Bay Road, Denmark, 15 minutes from the town centre.

GULL ROCK BEACH, ALBANY
This is a lovely spot to take your family or a small dog. Gull Rock Beach is specifically for dogs, just down the way from Gull Rock Beach.

It is surrounded by the pristine Gull Rock National Park and is protected from prevailing south-westerly winds. It’s a good spot for taking too and there are bushwalking trails nearby.

Off Gull Rock Beach, Kuljen, about 30 minutes from the CBD.

EMU POINT, ALBANY
A peaceful, quiet and relaxed spot that is a bit of a gem near Albany. Emu Point is a unique and fun spot to spend the day with your family.

It’s not ideal for young children as during low tide, the water does not exceed adult knee height out until the sandbank, and it’s surrounded by rocks, so it is not ideal for young kids. However, it’s perfect for people of all ages to swim. You might even catch a fish or two in the area.

Off Mermaid Avenue, Emu Point, 12 minutes from the town centre.

CHEYNES BEACH, CHEYNES
This is a great spot for many reasons. There’s swimming, bushwalking, 4WDing, fishing, bird watching, kayaking plus much more. The pristine water is low but is flowing on a hot day and it’s the perfect all-rounder location to suit everyone’s hobbies.

Off Cheyne Road, about one hour north of town.

IT’S hardly an Australian summer without a trip to the beach and a good old-fashioned barbecue. This year, we’ve put together a helpful list of tips and tricks to help you have your friends and family get-together into a feast worth remembering.

LOCATION
Luckily for us, Albany is essentially a barbecue mecca. Its beautiful natural surroundings and milder weather is ideal for the perfect get-together, which in itself is a great way to show off the place you call home to visiting out-of-towners.

The area around Middleton Beach has you covered with two family-friendly spots. Eyre Park and Emu Point are widely regarded as one of the best get-togethers in the South West, each with ample space to entertain your crew, public toilet, undercover areas and playground equipment for the kids, including a disability accessible swing.

A large oval and paid pathway around a pond provides plenty of opportunities for everything from a leisurely stroll to a game of family cricket.

For those that can’t do it without a beach, Middleton Beach itself is just a short drive away from Paradise and features two play equipment areas, public toilets and a barbeque. There are plenty of shaded grass areas to host your crew, but do check with the lifeguards before striking up your fancy. And if your cooking falls apart, there is a healthy helping of salmons nearby.

Another beloved Albany feature spotting bar- beque facilities is the Emu Point beachfront on Mermaid Avenue, like the other locales, it features shaded areas, tables and benches, public toilets, a playground and lovely views of the water.

You can make a day of it and hire a kayak or go for a walk on one of two easily accessible beaches, it’s the perfect recipe for a blissful day out.

ACTIVITIES
As much as it’s tempting to spend the day eating, drinking and lying in the sun, it can’t be called a barbecue without a bit of fun and games.

While we could write an entire article on fun barbeque activities, we’ve compiled a list of some of our go-to barbeque tips and tricks to help you wow your friends and family this summer.

If you don’t mind getting a bit wet, water guns and water balloons are always popular with little ones or adults alike and might be the cool down you need on a hotter summer day.

Beyond that, a deck of cards can go a long way for those that really don’t want to get out of the camping chair, as can group-friendly board games. For the quieter affair, why not bring a book or two and lounge around while the kids play.

And finally, don’t forget the essentials: sunscreen and protective clothing, enough towels to go around, the cutlery, you get the idea.

WHEN it comes to the bright, colourfull and excitable holidays period between Christmas and New Year’s, I always think of glorious food.

Mind you, I think of what I’m going to eat for dinner at breakfast time most days - but that’s beside the point.

So far we’ve looked at a guide to the best barbecues and the best beaches to hit in the Great Southern during summertime, and now I’m going to give you some examples of great food and beverage pairings to take along.

From the get go, don’t be intimidated in giving food and drink pairings a go. It’s fun and your palate will absolutely thank you.

Grace Jones

Perfect pairings

PALE ALE AND PIZZA

So you want a chill night in front of the TV and need something easy? Grab yourself a nice Margherita pizza with a crispy base and a pale ale to wash it down. All in all it will cost you around $35 for two people.

FISH AND CHIPS AND WHITE WINE

You really can’t go wrong with fish and chips, but when pairing white wine with this one make sure it’s something acidic to cut through the grease.

My suggestion is hitting up your favourite local fish and chip shop with a bottle of regional sauvignon blanc semillon. It will set you back about $40 for two people, and you’ll still have wine left over. Winner, winner.

MARGARITAS AND NACHOS

This one requires a bit of DIY but totally worth it for the end result. Once again, don’t be intimidated by giving cocktail making a go! For a simple margarita all you need is:

- 60ml of tequila
- 30ml of fresh lime juice
- 30ml Cointreau or Triple sec
- Salt

Rim your glasses with lime then dip in salt. Mix together your cocktail ingredients either in a cocktail shaker with ice or any closeable container. Shake well, and serve either with or without ice.

For the nachos, grab your corn chips of choice, salsa of preference (something with a bit of kick), some cheese and sour cream. Layer your chips in a tray with salsa and cheese; bake until the cheese is melted then serve hot with the sour cream dolloped on top. Yummo.

RED WINE AND STEAK

So it’s been a long day, the weather is a bit cold, and your partner comes home and declares it’s date night. My first thought, after pizza of course, is steak night.

And the best steak can only be paired with the best red wine. If I was you, and cost didn’t bother me, I would head to a steakhouse for a prime steak cooked medium rare with chips and salad.

And I would sip on a delectable cabernet merlot. I’m drooling just thinking about it. Of course you can always grab a steak from a locally-sourced butcher, grab a bottle of red, park up at a nice spot with a barbecue, and have just as nice of a date night and still the great taste. Salad is optional.

Preparing your pets for summer

HEAT exhaustion and dehydration can be one of the most deadly conditions through the Australian summer. It can occur at any age, any body size and any activity level. It is no secret that we need to be aware of the sonic conditions for the health of your pet than ever.

Here are some tips to help keep your pet cool and hydrated this summer:

- Animals are just as vulnerable as humans. Dogs, for example, are made up of 70% of body water whereas humans are only 50%. Therefore, in the heat of summer, your dog requires more water, more often. A potential indication that your dog needs fluid is when your dog seems a little lethargic or cloudy. But remember, not all dogs hydrate at the same rate. Now is the time to keep a close eye on your pets.

- Just like you would prepare your home for the heat, you need to protect your pet. At the very least, provide shade, keep the water dish topped up.

- The quality of stools also indicates the hydration status of your pet. If your dog has a smooth sausage-like consistency, rather hard patty for soft pups are ideal – a crisis that will get further out of hand. If you couldn’t possibly afford it, consult with your veterinarian about the best way forward.

Regardless of the type of faeces, a blood test or a faecal occult blood test, “poo” matters. The advice here is that you should always pay attention to your dog’s toilet habits, as any change could be an indicator of underlying health issues.

Don’t be facetious about faeces

Battery disposal: the basic guide

The basic guide to disposing of batteries

What can we do about battery disposal?

Batteries should never be disposed of in any kerbside bin.

Keep batteries out of your bin to reduce the risk of fire in Albany's rubbish trucks. Landfills and Material Recovery Facilities (MRFs) do not have the equipment to safely deal with batteries. This can lead to a chemical reaction and begin to smolder under intense heat. Thankfully this didn’t ignite surrounding waste paper.

Battery disposal: the basic guide

Battery disposal is important. It can prevent fires from starting and can help keep waste staff and infrastructure safe.

Batteries can spark a fire if they are subjected to pressure or impact. Batteries can also contain flammable compounds that can cause a fire or explosion.

Lithium batteries are particularly flammable and can cause a significant risk to waste staff and infrastructure when thrown away.

What can we do about it?

Switch to rechargeable batteries where possible. Most of the batteries we throw away are single-use. Rechargeable batteries can be changed hundreds of times so they’re better for the environment and reduce your cost in the long run.

Always remove batteries from appliances, toys and electronic devices at the end of their useful life.

To collect batteries, check with your local council for a drop-off point. In Albany, batteries can be dropped off at a variety of locations, including Fossicker’s Tip Shop, Albany Public Library, and Road Waste Facility.

Some battery types are not accepted at drop-off points, such as AA and AAA alkaline batteries.

What types of batteries are accepted at drop-off points?

- 9V batteries
- Button batteries (e.g., watch batteries)
- C and D size batteries
- AA and AAA (single-use and rechargeable)
- 9V batteries (e.g., torch batteries)

What do we do with vehicle batteries?

Vehicle batteries can be dropped off at the Road Waste Facility.

What do we do with electrical batteries?

Electrical batteries can be dropped off at the Road Waste Facility.

What do we do with lithium batteries?

Lithium batteries are particularly flammable and may pose a significant risk to waste staff and infrastructure when thrown.

Batteries should never be disposed of in any kerbside bin.

Keep batteries out of your bin to reduce the risk of fire in Albany's rubbish trucks. Landfills and Material Recovery Facilities (MRFs) do not have the equipment to safely deal with batteries. Comedies come together

SIX up-and-coming Melbourne comedians are heading to Albany next month to perform their routines as part of the Albany Arts Festival Season.

Albany Entertainment, SBS, and ABCTV have previously competitively appeared on the National Final, RAW Comedy festival. Now, they will perform at some of the most positive reviews in the country.

They will perform at Albany Arts Centre on February 8 as part of the Albany Arts Festival Season.

Ash to fire festival

IAN BEECK
LEGENDARY blues and roots musician, Ash Grunwald will bring his style of dirty, swampy, and raw sound to Albany when he performs at Wagnalls Vintage Blues and Jazz Festival on January 10.

Grunwald is acclaimed as one of Australia’s finest storytellers and musicians. His unique style has been praised as one of the best albums of the year. He has sold out shows in 4.4 and 1.9 and guarantees you will be swapping at home before the song finishes.

The award-winning artist released his debut album Mojo, that was recorded in the US and Australia and features Whipping Voice (with Toshs Channells), and Ain’t no Heartache (with The Teskey Brothers).

There are also appearances by some of the world’s top blues and roots artists including Michelle Branch, Joe Bonamassa, The Cat Empire’s Harry James Angus, Terry Evans, Bigg “The Chor” Cooper, and Dick Rivers.

The Cat Empire’s Harry James Angus, Terry Evans, Bigg “The Chor” Cooper, and Dick Rivers.

Alongside the release of Mojo, Grunwald has also released his first book Surf By Day, Mojo By Night. The book contains two passions – music and surfing – as an insight into the minds of the legends who have mastered the art of both.

Throughout conversations with Cesar Cruz, Brian Grimes, Jack Johnson and many more, Grunwald discusses what it’s like to live out your dreams.

Grunwald’s free acoustic success with his debut album includes Ash Grunwald which included ‘Don’t Sing’ Song, based on a real life encounter he experienced with a shark and a pod of dolphins that came to his rescue.

For this album and subsequent touring, he received Best Blues Act of the Year at the Australian Blues Awards in 2003. Since then he has gone from strength-to-strength, releasing new albums and winning a spate of awards as well as earning himself a slot playing on the world’s best surfers.

Grunwald will also perform alongside the Blues Brothers Revue (from the USA) and The Vibrolators along with some of the world’s best surfers.

Electric car voted best of the year

THIS week for On the Road is what was voted by the Weekender staff as car of the year for 2019, Bill Dixon terms his ‘disease’ of restoring cars as a ‘disease’. His latest project is this 1917 Rauch & Lang electric which he bought in February 2018 and has been working hard on ever since.

The only other car of his brand, the plate is a 1927 Hillman Minx. His previous restoration projects have included a 1919 Buick and a 1911 Buick and a 1902 Holman Minx.

Bill’s latest project is the 1917 Rauch & Lang electric car. This car is popular with ladies as Whiteman Park has been the location of the newest and best boat ramp for car launches and a minor boat ramp in little creek.

And he’s already onto his next project – a 1927 Jeffery and a 1927 Ford. His ‘disease’ of restoring cars as a ‘disease’. He’s been working hard on this car since he bought it in February 2018.

Dental care for pre-teens - 9-11 years

Teeth development

Pram to 11 years, children have a mix of adult and primary (baby) teeth. As children grow, some of their baby teeth will fall out. This is normal. When primary teeth fall out, it makes space for their permanent (adult) teeth to come in. If you try to pull out a primary tooth without it being ready, it may damage the developing permanent tooth. If a primary tooth is stuck, see your dentist.

Brushing your child’s teeth

Brushing teeth is important from a very early age and is vital for keeping teeth strong and healthy. One of the main reasons for brushing teeth is to keep the mouth clean and remove any food, plaque and bacteria from your child’s teeth.

If you’re using an electric toothbrush, you can look for the following features:

• A long handle: this will make it easy for your child to move the toothbrush around their mouth.
• Soft bristles: these won’t damage your child’s gums or tooth enamel.
• A timer: this will help your child brush for the right amount of time.
• A small head: this will make it easy for your child to move the toothbrush around their mouth.

Electric toothbrushes are just as good as non-electric toothbrushes. They’re particularly useful if your child has poor motor skills.

If you try to pull out a primary tooth without it being ready, it may damage the developing permanent tooth. If a primary tooth is stuck, see your dentist.

OUT WITH THE OLD … AND IN WITH THE NEW

By AMBER CEVERAN

On your doorknob in a club
New Year’s resolutions. Like from musicians, it all feels somewhat annoying, out of touch. But is there anything more annoying?
You just need a fresh approach to goal setting. Forget the concept of resolutions, and instead, start setting good, meaningful goals.

The woolshed

1. Setting unrealistic goals.

Rather than experiencing burn-out or not feeling like you’ve achieved anything, you will feel amazing.

2. Setting goals that are not related to your personal development.

You just need a fresh approach to goal setting. Forget the concept of resolutions, and instead, start setting good, meaningful goals.

3. Setting goals that are not related to your personal development.

to goal setting. Forget the concept of resolutions, and instead, start setting good, meaningful goals.

4. I am going to exercise daily

Stop focusing on the number, put your energy into healthy behaviour.

5. Setting unrealistic goals.
